SECOND SUPERSEDING INDICTMENT

THE GRAND JURY CHARGES:

COUNT ONE:

[18 U.S.C. § 1962(d) – Conspiracy to Violate RICO]

At all times relevant to this Second Superseding Indictment:

I. The Enterprise

1. The defendants, MARCUS O. MILLSAP, aka Red; WESLEY S. GULLETT, aka Bad Company, aka BC; JEFFERY L. KNOX, aka 100%; JAMES SCOTT OLIVER, aka Scottie; TIMOTHY J. FERGUSON, aka TJ; KEVIN M. LONG; APRIL HOWELL, aka Apes; SHANNON J. FERGUSON, aka Shannon Pridmore, aka Shannon Spencer; and PAULA S. ENOS, and others known and unknown to the Grand Jury, were members and associates of the New Aryan Empire criminal organization (“NAE”), whose members and associates engaged in, among other things, narcotics trafficking, witness intimidation and retaliation, acts involving murder, kidnapping, and aggravated assault. At all times relevant to this Second Superseding Indictment, the NAE criminal organization operated in the Eastern District of Arkansas and elsewhere.

2. NAE, including its leadership, members, and associates, constituted an “enterprise,” as defined in 18 U.S.C. § 1961(4), that is, a group of individuals associated in fact, although not a legal entity, which was engaged in, and the activities of which affected, interstate and foreign commerce. The enterprise constituted an ongoing organization whose members functioned as a continuing unit for a common purpose of achieving the objectives of the enterprise.

3. In 1990, a group of inmates in the Arkansas Department of Corrections united to “preserve the Caucasian race” and protect themselves from rival prison inmates of minority racism. Founded on the principles of white supremacy, this group was named the New Aryan Empire, or NAE. Affiliating with leading white supremacy organizations such as the Aryan Brotherhood, the NAE quickly gained prominence and expanded its operations into criminal endeavors. In so doing, the NAE asserted itself both within the prison system and the surrounding communities as members were released from incarceration. The areas of Russellville and Pope County in the Eastern District of Arkansas were home to a high concentration of NAE members. NAE spread to neighboring states and communities. Present membership is at approximately 5,000 members.

4. The NAE was founded by an inmate at the Pope County Detention Center in Russellville, Arkansas. The NAE was originally controlled by five members, known as the High Elders. The High Elders oversaw all NAE operations, controlled membership, and managed correspondence. Serving as a committee, the High Elders voted on matters of NAE importance and transmitted their decisions throughout the enterprise.

5. Beneath the High Elders, the NAE was divided into two groups - those who were incarcerated and those who were not. Inside the prison system, the NAE was comprised of units for each penal facility. Each unit was governed by a Yard Representative, or Yard Rep. All Yard Representatives reported directly to an "inside" President, who oversaw all NAE activities by incarcerated members. Outside the prison system, the NAE was comprised of Chapters for specific geographic regions or locations. Each Chapter was governed by a President, Vice President, Secretary, Treasurer, and Sergeant at Arms. In turn, all Chapters reported directly to an "outside" President, who oversaw all NAE activities by un-incarcerated members. Similar to the Chapter structure, the "outside" President was assisted by a Vice President, Secretary, Treasurer, and Sergeant at Arms.

6. On or about November 3, 2015, the NAE, by decree of the NAE founder, formed a Supreme Council to oversee all enterprise operations and business affairs. The Supreme Council was comprised of nine senior NAE members and was tasked with ensuring the betterment and advancement of the NAE. As with the High Elders previously, the Supreme Council voted on matters of NAE importance and transmitted their decisions throughout the membership. Such decisions were made by majority vote. However, the original founder of the NAE retained the right to veto any decision made by the Supreme Council. In addition to voting, the Supreme Council's duties included the appointment of NAE members to leadership positions.

7. The NAE had a strict hierarchy for management and decision-making processes. Using a militaristic and corporate rank structure to denote authority and delegate responsibilities, NAE leaders held titles such as President, Vice President, Secretary, Treasurer, Sergeant at Arms, and Prospect.

8. To obtain members, the NAE recruited both within and outside the prison system. To become an NAE member, an individual had to be sponsored by a preexisting NAE member for a period of at least six months. During this probationary period, the aspiring NAE member, referred to as a Prospect, was required to prove his/her allegiance to the NAE and his/her value as a potential member. Passing the probationary period is commonly achieved through the commission of crimes. Once a Prospect became a full NAE member, the individual received an NAE tattoo, referred to as a patch.

9. To maintain order and ensure allegiance, the NAE adopted a code of conduct for its members. Comprised of 23 rules, this code called for members to, among other things, not fraternize outside the Caucasian race, not speak with law enforcement, not "snitch" on a fellow NAE member, and not be homosexual or a rapist or molester. The code of conduct also required members to carry themselves in a manner that is worthy of respect and ensure the protection of one another. Additionally, the code required members to pay ten percent of all earnings back to the NAE. Violations of the code resulted in disciplinary actions, with the degree of punishment depending on the code that was violated and how the membership voted to handle the situation. The range of punishment included fines, physical assaults and batteries, expulsion (known as “being X’ed out”), and death. This code applied to both incarcerated and outside NAE members.

10. NAE members held meetings to collect dues and earnings, examine membership issues, strategize illegal conduct, disseminate enterprise correspondence, share enterprise literature, and discuss criminal activities. The funds collected were used to satisfy bonds to obtain the release of members from jail, to support members and their families in times of need, and to further NAE criminal activities. The money was also used to further the NAE’s main source of income, drug distribution.

11. Females associated or affiliated with the NAE are commonly referred to as “featherwoods.” Featherwoods often have tattoos of NAE-related symbols, phrases, and acronyms.

12. Despite having numerous incarcerated members, NAE maintains communications throughout the enterprise by using a variety of means. Incarcerated members frequently write letters to discuss NAE business. Such correspondence is transmitted both inside the prison system, and outside to un-incarcerated members. Moreover, incarcerated members often utilize contraband cellular telephones, that is, devices impermissibly smuggled into penal facilities, to communicate with outside members. Incarcerated and un-incarcerated members utilize Facebook to discuss NAE business. While some of these communications are in plain language, others employ codes to thwart law enforcement scrutiny.

13. To distinguish themselves from both rival and allied groups, NAE members employ a variety of indicia, including, but not limited to, numbers, letters, symbols, tattoos, slogans, terminology, hand gestures, and greetings. Many of these indicia portray the NAE's white supremacy roots and include, but are not limited to, the following:

- a. Swastika: Widely used by various white supremacist groups as a symbol of white power. Commonly depicted in tattoos, artwork, and internet memes among NAE members and associates.
- b. Lightning Bolts: Nazi symbol signifying the Schutzstaffel (SS), who were Heinrich Himmler's police forces during the Nazi regime. The lightning bolts are used as a symbol of violence, anti-Semitism, white supremacy, and fascism by various neo-Nazi and other white supremacist organizations throughout the world.
- c. Reichsadler: This symbol depicts an eagle, representing power and strength, clutching a swastika and was known as the formal symbol of Adolf Hitler's Third Reich. The NAE use the Reichsadler in their patch. The Reichsadler is also commonly depicted in tattoos, photos, artwork, and memes that are shared between NAE members and associates.
- d. 1488: The 14 represents the "14 Words" written by David Lane, founder of The Order, a white supremacist organization: "We must secure the existence of our people and a future for white children." The 88 represents the "88 Precepts," which is a manifesto written by David Lane that lays out precepts for living a white supremacist lifestyle. The number eight is also the eighth letter of the alphabet, “H,” with 88 standing for HH, “Heil Hitler.”

- e. Peckerwood, Wood, or Wood-Wood: Peckerwood is a common term used by white prison inmates, white supremacist organizations, and Aryan Brotherhood groups to identify themselves. Wood is commonly used as an abbreviation for peckerwood.
- f. Heil Hitler Salute: This hand gesture was used by the Nazi regime to demonstrate loyalty to Adolf Hitler, his core beliefs of white supremacy, and the Third Reich.

14. The NAE patch is comprised of a swastika with a dagger in the middle, two additional swastikas, an Eagle perched on top of the dagger, two maple or oak leaves, and blood dripping from the dagger. The Eagle represents freedom; the dagger stands for W.A.R. (there is a time for the waging of war and they are warriors); the large swastika represents white power; the three swastikas represent the trinity of loyalty, honor and respect; the leaves, whether maple or oak, signify strength, as those trees when grown and deeply rooted are strong and hard to move; and the drop of blood symbolizes the blood shed by brothers for the protection and advancement of their family.

15. The NAE adopted the slogan “To The Dirt”. This slogan represents that NAE membership is for life, that is, either dying as an NAE member, or being killed as a result of leaving or being expelled from the NAE. Similarly, the NAE transliterated this slogan into numeric representations, “234” and “II III IV”, with the number two representing the word “To”, the number three representing the word “The”, and the number four representing the word “Dirt”. Lastly, NAE members utilize the mantra and salutation “Love, Honor, and Respect”.

16. The NAE rule structure, organizational management, and emphasis on loyalty fomented an environment whereby members would protect one another, both from physical violence and criminal liability. Junior members and associates frequently accepted responsibility for the commission of crimes committed by senior members and leaders. This was done in order to protect those senior members and leaders, demonstrate loyalty, and obtain, maintain, and increase rank within NAE. While seemingly illogical, members commonly engaged in such behavior, knowing that the NAE would protect and support them and their families during their incarceration.

17. NAE uses its power to create fear and intimidation that shields its members from criminal responsibility, ensures the timely payment of drug debts, and prevents the theft of members' money or drugs. Violent retribution is an important activity of the enterprise. Such violent retribution helps enforce loyalty to the enterprise that is necessary to the smooth running of its criminal activities.

18. Members of NAE often associate with other white supremacy groups, such as the White Aryan Resistance ("WAR"). WAR has similar core beliefs and rank structure as the NAE. As such, it is not uncommon for the two groups to collaborate and coningle to further their criminal objectives, including narcotics distribution.

II. The Purposes of the Enterprise

19. The purposes of the NAE criminal enterprise, including its members and associates, included, but were not limited to, the following:

- a. Maintaining, protecting, and expanding the power, territory, operations, reputation, and proceeds of the NAE criminal enterprise through intimidation, threats of violence, and actual acts of violence;

- b. Promoting, enhancing, and concealing the illegal activities of the NAE criminal enterprise in order to enrich and financially assist its leaders, members, and associates;
- c. Hindering and obstructing law enforcement efforts to investigate the illegal activities of the NAE in order to protect the criminal enterprise by keeping rivals, witnesses, informants, cooperating defendants, and the public-at-large in fear of its leaders, members, and associates;
- d. Protecting its leaders, members, and associates from physical violence perpetrated by rivals and ensuring the overall safety, security, and prosperity of its leaders, members, and associates.

III. The Means and Methods of the Enterprise

20. Among the means and methods by which the leaders, members, and associates of the NAE criminal enterprise conducted, and participated in the conduct of, the affairs of the enterprise were the following:

- a. Leaders, members, and associates created, implemented, advanced, promoted, and utilized an organizational structure and hierarchy to promote organization and command within the enterprise;
- b. Leaders, members, and associates created, implemented, advanced, promoted, and enforced various rules to maintain an organized structure and command within the enterprise;
- c. Leaders, members, and associates met regularly, and used various means of correspondence, to identify, discuss, and vote on enterprise matters, such as membership issues, disciplinary matters, coordination of criminal activities, and thwarting law enforcement scrutiny, as well as to receive support, encouragement, and approval for carrying out criminal activities to further the success of the enterprise;

- d. Leaders, members, and associates used, and threatened to use, violence, such as kidnapping, battery, aggravated assault, and acts involving murder, to preserve and protect the power, territory, reputation, and profits of the enterprise, as well as to protect the enterprise by hindering, obstructing, and preventing law enforcement authorities from identifying, apprehending, and successfully prosecuting and punishing the offenders;
- e. Leaders, members, and associates obtained, transported, stored, packaged, and distributed controlled substances to promote, support, and enhance the enterprise and its members' and associates' activities;
- f. Leaders, members, and associates received, transported, stored, packaged, concealed, and transferred the illicit proceeds derived from their illegal activities to promote, support, and enhance the enterprise and its members' and associates;
- g. Leaders, members, and associates obtained, transported, stored, maintained, carried, and used various weapons, such as firearms and knives, to be used for protection of the enterprise and its members' and associates, as well as in the commission of crimes; and
- h. Leaders, members, and associates concealed, altered, mutilated, and destroyed evidence in order to prevent law enforcement authorities from identifying, apprehending, and successfully prosecuting and punishing members and associates of the enterprise.
